MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

Many of our local musicians were in-Many of our local musicians were inclined to question some of the decisions made by Dr. Parry at the sisteddfod held this week at Laurel Hill park, though to the credit of all interested in the adjudications it should be stated, the remarks upon the subject have been of a friendly and joking nature. This seems a good indication that the world of music hereabouts is growing better. The work of adjudication at an eisteddfod is difficult at all times, and especially so on occasions all times, and especially so on occasion where contestants are so evenly balanced where contestants are so evenly balanced as they were at Laurel Hill. In giving opinions as to the merits of certain renditions Dr. Parry, no doubt, took into consideration many points that would not be noticed by the average listener and his trained ear noticed grave defects that would be concealed from the andience by the dash and brilliancy of the singers. Upon the whole it would seem that the decisions of the adjudicator were impartially given and his manner of expressing tially given and his manner of expressing ideas showed a thorough knowledge of the subject.

Austere musicians about us claim that the one serious drawback to the Moody meetings in this city is the awakening of a de sire on part of many good people to sing the gospel hymns. While it is undoubtedly true that a greater portion of the songs of the tent are of an exceedingly trashy na ture, musically speaking, there are many meritorious works in the gospei collection. It is indeed to be regretted that a higher class of music is not utilized in divine worship. The musical offerings should be of its best. But while the gospel hymns do not perhaps come up to the ideas of the educated musician, they perform a mission in elevating the tasts of the novice to har-mony and melody of a more ambitious grade, and what may sound like elap-trap today may in future stimulate a desire for the soul inspiring strains that are worthy of the hymns of praise offered up to the

The selection of the Toreador's song from "Carmen," as a competitive piece for baritone singers, was an exhibition of good judgment on part of the committee at Laurel Hill park on Thursday. There are few soles that allow the opportunities for fine work that are presented in the song of the Toreador. The vocalist who fails to gain inspiration from this grand composition is certainly lacking in natural taste tion is certainly lacking in natural tasts for music and should never attempt to sing in public. In the matter of selections sing in public. In the matter of selections, it is thought, better taste could have been displayed. While a song of the class of the Toreador never grows old, some of the other pieces rendered were of the grade that grow rusty very young. They too familiar, in fact, to be enjoyable.

The next eisteddfod of importance to singers in the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys will be held at Allentown on Thanksgiving Day. Representatives of the enterprise were at Laurel Hill park yesterday in consultation with well known local vocalists on the subject.

For the Esturday Tribune The success which Zimmerman, Banker and Wheeler have attained in the professional ranks in Europe has led the supporters of cash prize racing in this country to believe that there is still an opportunity to popularize the sport in America. In spite of the con-siderable money lost by the promoters of the cash prize league last season, a movement is now afoot, well backed financially, to bring the American professionals and a party of foreign racing men to this country this fall and hold a series of professional meetings throughout the country. The scheme, it is reported, is supported by some well-to-do sporting men, who have be-come rather enthusiastic over the big crowds who are attending the professional races abroad, and believe that they see a big financial return in the promotion of similar races in this country. W. B. Troy, the manager of the American profes-sionals, is said to be interested in the scheme. So sanguine are the promoters of this professional scheme that it is proposed to hire a track in the suburbs of Gotham and arrange some big races upon the return of Zimmerman.

The latter, upon his departure for England in the spring asserted that this would be his last season upon the track; and, as he is at present booked to compete at a number of indoor meetings this fall, it does not seem likely that he will arrive in this country until the early part of December, in which event indoor races will have to be promoted. To launch the pro-fessional racing scheme in America again will require big financial backing, and in the event of big purses being offered there is no doubt but what a
